ME. FORTUNE: As several of our citizens have friends and relatives in the region of the "Indian Troubles," for whose safety they entertain strong fears, the following, from the Cleveland Leader, may excite hope, if it do not in fact point out the means of their deliverance: H. J. KESTER.

THE INDIAN TROUBLES.—A. B. Murch, a brother-in-law of J. F. Keeler of this city, writes to the latter from St. Paul with regard to the late Indian outbreak. He was at that time on his way with the Kennebec Rangers to Fort Snelling to enter the service. The news reaching them at St. Paul, the company turned back to Fort Ridgely and assisted in its defense, saving the post. When reinforcements came the company proceeded to St. Paul. At St. Paul, Mr. Murch found his wife, Mr. Keeler's sister, who had escaped from an Agency among the Sioux Indians, where he had left her, with a party of sixty-two, guided by a friendly Indian named Augustus Tokes (Ojibwa) whose photograph is in Mr. Keeler's possession. He rescued the party from Yellow Medicine, Minnesota, and plotted them safely to Shakopee, August 19th, 1862. They lost everything, Mrs. Murch saving but the dress she had on. Mr. Murch speaks of the atrocities committed by the Indians as exceeding anything in the history of Indian warfare.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

DISPATCHES BY THE WESTERN UNION LINE.

Noon Dispatches.

FROM MARYLAND.

FREDERICK, Sept. 16.—I regret to announce the surrender of Harper's Ferry with all the forces and stores there, to the enemy at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The enlisted men and some officers have been paroled and arrived here. From them I gather the following particulars:

The rebels commenced the attack Friday noon on our forces on Maryland Heights. Skirmishing continued throughout the day and was renewed Sunday. The enemy was driven back with considerable loss. They came up several times and were repulsed. When it was discovered that they were approaching in overwhelming force, an order was given to spike the guns and throw them down the mountain. The whole force on the Heights then returned in safety. The guns from Camp Hill shelling the enemy when they attempted to pursue our retreating men.

On Monday morning a party of our men again ascended the Heights and brought away their field pieces, which they had left unspiked.

At noon the rebels appeared in great force on London Heights. We shelled them from point to point. Some of their guns were disabled, but they still managed to keep up a brisk fire from some of their batteries, which were run back out of sight and loaded. The cannonading was kept up all day Sunday without doing much damage. The fighting continued until Sunday evening, when it was resumed again Monday morning at daylight, and kept up till 9 o'clock, when Miles ordered the white flag to be raised. There was considerable fog and smoke, and the enemy did not see it and kept up a heavy fire for three quarters of an hour. It was not until after the flag was up that Miles struck Col. Miles, shattering his right leg. It was anticipated before the prisoners were paroled. There were about 2,300 cavalry in the command, of whom but about 40 escaped about 2 o'clock Sunday night and cut their way through to Greenbush with but little loss. The balance of the troops, numbering from 6,000 to 8,000, with Gen. White's command from Martinsburg, were all surrendered.

Gen. Howe captured an Aid of Stewart's Monday p. m., who was making his way from Harper's Ferry to Boonesboro with a dispatch from Jackson to Lee, announcing the capitulation of the place. The Aid supposed Lee was at Boonesboro, which was our possession. This was the first information of the surrender that our Generals had received. At this time Franklin was within 3 hours of the Ferry, going to the relief of the beleaguered command. Whether he had been sent by McClellan or not, he received the dispatch from Miles on Monday morning that he was in danger.

FREDERICK, Sept. 16.—The following is the Baltimore American.

From Frederick, Md., Sept. 16.—This morning is the most cheering character. Notwithstanding the bad news from Harper's Ferry, McClellan is pursuing them with a vigor and most destructive to the enemy. McClellan pursued the enemy on Monday morning with his cavalry and a large body of fresh troops.

The enemy took the road towards the river at Harper's Ferry and at Shepherdstown and he was pursuing them and shelling their retreating forces.

In several contests Monday, where they made a stand, our troops charged on them with such vigor that they fell back from point to point in great haste. The battles and advantages obtained Monday are thought to be superior in importance than those Sunday. Drayton's South Carolina Brigade is entirely gone, either killed, wounded or prisoners.

The 17th Michigan, a new regiment, done up this brigade first with bullets, finally with bayonets. Howell Cobb is wounded and taken prisoner.

McClellan was pushing on them last evening closely, and had already sent to the rear eight thousand prisoners and four batteries.

[Special Correspondence New York World.]

FREDERICK, Md. Sept. 16.—At the battle of South Mountain Gap and Burkettville Gap fought respectively by forces of Burnside and Franklin, Sunday, the enemy having been driven from their position, fell back rapidly to Boonesboro, thence Southward to Sharpsburg, and began crossing the Potomac above and below Shepherdstown. Pursuit by our troops was rapid. Hooker followed by way of Boonesboro, supported by Sumner and Banks. The enemy broke back at Keedysville, 3 miles from Boonesboro, but our Cavalry soon drove their rear guard from that place. Porter's and Reno's corps took a short road over the mountain, and arrived at Sharpsburg at sun down, capturing hundreds of prisoners on the way. Franklin's corps, supported by Couch's division, based through Burkettville Gap, which he captured so handsomely, striking the leading division of the enemy at Burkettville Gap. The enemy was retreating in the direction of the latter place, gaining Elk Ridge mountain, which flanked the enemy's position, and brought them within good range of our artillery. Franklin's corps fought a brilliant battle Sunday evening at Burkettville Gap. The enemy was terribly repulsed, though great advantages of position were with them. Hancock's Brigade made a charge up a hill and captured a Battery of 6 pieces. Howell Cobb and all of his Georgians, and the 11th Virginia regiment, was taken entire and fragments of many other regiments. On Sunday Longstreet marched back from Hagerstown to reinforce forces fighting at the Gap. He arrived in time to join in the river at Sharpsburg, with less than the usual portion of officers. The mountains are full of straggling, starving, demoralized rebels, who are giving themselves up as fast as they can find their way into our lines. Thursday last Jackson crossed the Potomac at Williamsport and marched towards Harper's Ferry, which place he invested Saturday. He captured Maryland Heights on the North and London Heights on the South side of the river. Sunday he attacked the Ferry but was repulsed. Monday morning the fight was renewed the attack and the place was surrendered by Miles to Dixon at seven o'clock. This disaster will enable the rebels to cross the Potomac with a greater proportion of their forces. Yesterday evening, previous to this news, McClellan and Burnside were rapidly making such dispositions as would have resulted in the complete defeat or capture of nearly the entire rebel host.

We pressed their rear last evening, and the prospect was most brilliant, until we learned that Harper's Ferry was no longer ours, the enemy having got mainly across the river and into strong position.

A great battle will probably be deferred until Sunday, when a combination of forces is required now. The Union army is in splendid condition. The men are all in light marching order and are in buoyant spirits over their successes.

Several regiments of new troops were in the city on Sunday and believed to be of great bravery. Our total loss won't probably exceed 2,500 killed and wounded, with a very small proportion killed. I can learn of few field officers being killed. The death of Reno is mourned throughout the whole army. The capture of Miles was a great loss.

Among the wounded are Col. Wadsworth, 17th Michigan, in the arm, slightly; Col. Gallagher, 11th Pennsylvania Reserve, severely; 3d Brigade, arm, slightly; Maj. Cary, 12th Ohio, thigh, both wounds; Lieut. Col. Hayes, 23d Ohio, left arm; Capt. Leggett, 12th Ohio, head, severely; Capt. Thayer, 17th Michigan, left arm and hand; Capt. Goldsmith, 17th Michigan, severely; Capt. Edwards, 17th Michigan, side, severely; and arm amputated; Capt. Parsons, 2d Wisconsin, shoulder; Capt. Hare, 19th Indiana, leg, slightly; Capt. Nagel, 25th Ohio, leg, slightly; Lieut. Somers, 17th Michigan, abdomen, severely; Lieut. Bedford, 3d

Ohio, knee; Lieut. Company K, 23d Ohio, knee; Lieut. Harris, 6th Wisconsin; Lieut. Radden, 19th Indiana, leg; Lieut. Hummel, 25th Ohio, leg; Col. Ballinger, 17th Pennsylvania Reserve, arm and breast.

LATER.

FREDERICK, Sept. 16, 2 P. M.—Our loss at Harper's Ferry is light. Less than 200 killed and wounded. The forces captured were the 5th, 6th and 33d Ohio, 9th Vermont, 39th, 115th, 126th New York, 12th New York State Militia, an Indiana battery, besides the Maryland House Brigade.

Heavy fighting is going on to-day in Pleasant Valley, north of the Ferry.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 16. We have just received tidings of the 2 portions of the Rebel army having united on this side of the Potomac, numbering it is supposed 30,000 men.

LATER, 3 40 P. M.—A battle is reported as going all this p. m. the result is not yet known.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The morning papers contain nothing additional to what was telegraphed last night, with the following exception:

A Washington dispatch to the Herald, says the following: Intelligence has just been received. It puts a new phase on the condition of affairs at Harper's Ferry, and shows that although there has been no direct intelligence from McClellan during today, the enemy are panic stricken and unwilling to wait the approach of his victorious army, even in strong positions. By dint of overwhelming numbers, the small corps under Miles and White, were compelled to surrender, after nearly three days of hard fighting, and after Miles had been seriously wounded and incapacitated for further participation in the defense of the position.

Information is telegraphed to-night from the Herald correspondent at Frederick, as follows:

An officer who has just arrived from Harper's Ferry reports that the rebels had evacuated the place in a great hurry. They are sending everything across the river as fast as possible. They left Harper's Ferry in such haste that they had no time to complete the paroling of the prisoners, and a number were unconditionally released in consequence.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Times' correspondent states that Longstreet was killed and Hill captured by our forces.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The following extract from a letter received at the War Department, dated Monday, Sept. 16, 1862, states: "The rebels have evacuated Harper's Ferry, and are now in a great hurry to move. It must be remembered that California troops have marched through a desert country where no provisions or forage could be obtained, and therefore every thing for horse and man was carried with them, and yet with a train with less than half of a regiment not marching fifty miles from Washington, they have averaged fifteen miles a day for nearly sixty days. The 1st Infantry and Cavalry California Volunteers have successfully marched one thousand miles, over a route to the Colorado Desert, Gila River, Tucson and the Miltre, from the Pacific to the Rio Grande. They have done without the loss of 10 men in Indian and Rebel attacks, with abundant supplies and a serviceable train, and reached the western border of Texas in condition for immediate contest with the enemy. Officers and men have stood the hardships of the march, alike without tents and without baggage, one wagon sufficing to transport ten days rations, and the property of each company for fully half the distance over burning deserts in midsummer with a scarce supply of water. The men have uncomplainingly carried their knapsacks. They have only been too well satisfied at every step carried them nearer to the heart of the rebellion."

FROM LOUISVILLE.

MEMPHIS, Ky., Sept. 16.—The rebels under Bragg attacked our forces this forenoon, and they have been fighting nearly all day. The Federal forces are surrounded by Col. Wilder, are fighting bravely, and are determined to hold the post. The enemy's force is represented to be large.

LATER.—We learn that a portion of Buell's army arrived, and are engaged with Bragg's forces.
